

Clear Area

When applying the signature, it is important to leave a measured amount of clear space around the signature to maintain optimum legibility and aid in legal protection. For print applications always maintain at least a minimum of $1/4x$ of breathing room around the signature. For signage applications always maintain at least a minimum of $1/8x$ of breathing room around the signature. Keep this area clear of other elements such as text, rule lines, page edges, etc. More space is always preferred. The clear area is proportional, relative to the size of the signature, and is measured by the horizontal width of the signature, as shown to the right.

Print Applications

Signage Applications

